If you're motivated by the prospect of making data meaningful and working with a team that values your input, we'd like to meet you.

Your qualifications:

- Technical training or experience in measurement technology or a comparable environment
- Enjoy transferring knowledge to customers and employees
- Problem-solving approach to tasks
- Relevant technical education completed, such as a technician certificate or university degree
- Excellent oral and written communication skills in German/English

Your tasks:

- Technical support for daily customer inquiries by phone, e-mail, or remote access
- Commissioning and delivering training at customer locations
- Collaboration in projects and creation of system configurations and customer-specific applications
- Develop product documentation and training materials

What awaits you:

- Comprehensive training and onboarding
- A high degree of independence and responsibility
- Latest technologies and working methods
- Agile project management in a collegial, dynamic team
- An agile and collaborative team environment
- A stimulating workplace in a growing company
- Fair, performance-based compensation
- Challenging global projects and developments
- Development prospects after approx. 3-4 years:
Senior Application Engineer or Head of Tech Support
